Got it. It'll be interesting to see if it's newsworthy and whether community agitation for more active cleanup had anything to do with the formality of the separation.

I didn't know they'd do this formal thing but the city has long been saying they are not in agreement with LWG, they've submitted separate opinions on different things—so this isn't a surprise. The LWG only existed to do the RIFS and they are all running to cover their own issues now so the LWG as a group doesn't have a lot of reason to even exist. Also, to the extent that they were ever a cohesive group, it was fairly tenuous.

Hi Mark,

Nice talking to you today. Let me know if there are any more media developments and I will keep you posted on our end. Here is the LWG statement. Like I mentioned, I left a message for Cami and the City Attorneys have been in contact with Lori Cora. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Statement regarding the City's voluntary suspension of membership with the LWG

With the release of the EPA's Final Draft Feasibility Study, the LWG's required work is complete. Moving forward, the City of Portland and the LWG have agreed that the City will suspend its membership in the LWG. The City is developing comments on the Proposed Plan, focusing on how best to serve the important and diverse perspectives of Portlanders. The City has the option of reactivating its membership in the LWG at any time, and will honor its legal and financial obligations to the work the LWG has done.

After many years of study and process, the City wants to see cleanup start as soon as possible.

Thanks,

Annie
